

All-in-One Restaurant Management Platform

Built-in Online Ordering & Delivery

Don't settle for paying commission fees on every order with services like GrubHub and Fodler when you can manage online ordering, gift cards, takeout, and delivery as an integrated feature of your Toast POS system.

Personalized Webpage

If you take advantage of Toast's integrated online ordering feature, Toast will create a webpage for your business complete with your full menu. All you have to do is add a link to your restaurant's website that directs visitors to the online ordering page. From there, customers can choose their meals, select either takeout or delivery, and submit their orders.

Easy Menu Management

With Toast, online ordering is hosted directly through the Toast all-in-one restaurant management platform, which makes managing and modifying the menu extremely simple. When you mark an item as out of stock or make changes to your menu within Toast, that information can be instantly synced to, and reflected on, your online ordering menu. In the Toast system, you can also control which menu groups, and specific items are available for online ordering.

Integrated Online Orders & in-House Operations

Don't let takeout orders impair the efficiency of the kitchen. Orders placed online are fired the same way as in-house orders, with configurable printer routing to the correct food stations. Toast can even store orders to fire in the future and save account information for regular customers.

Track Takeout & Delivery

Toast enables managers to keep tabs on online orders from the moment they are placed until they are successfully picked up by or delivery to the customer. Restaurant owners can customize delivery fees by distance, set takeout hours, dispatch drivers, and collect payments in Toast.

Did you know?

GrubHub charges an average of 13.5% fee on every online order.

“The fact that I can update my menu in Toast and it automatically updates my online ordering has probably saved me 5 to 6 hours a week.”
