Kiosk Software for Restaurants

Our customer-facing kiosk brings the checkout experience right into your guest's hands leaving your staff free to focus on food service and allowing you to compete with the advanced technology of restaurant chains.

Reliable Elo Hardware

Toast uses commercial grade 15" Eloview hardware for self-serve kiosks. These reliable terminals also come with a 2 year manufacturer's warranty.

Serve More Guests at Peak Times

Give your guests the ability to place orders, fire orders to the kitchen, and complete the payment process right on the self-service kiosks. This way, you'll be able to serve even more guests during your busiest hours.

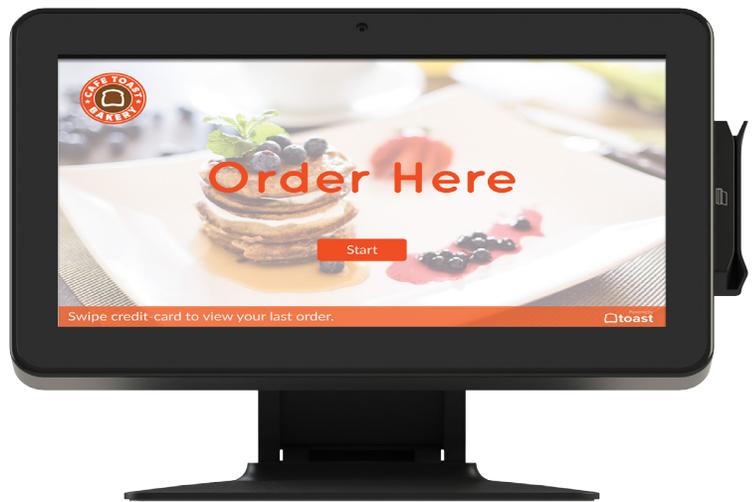

Improve the Customer Experience

Toast Kiosks reduce the time customers spend waiting in line to order and pay for their meals. In addition, self-service kiosks offer customers more freedom to easily customize their orders based on their specific preferences and dietary restrictions.

Cut Down on Labor Costs

With self-service kiosks you'll be able to serve more guests with fewer staff members, allowing you to cut down on labor costs during both your busiest and slowest times. Kiosks will also allow your staff to become more productive in other areas, freeing them up to focus on additional side work.

Promote Upsells

Upselling is built in to the Toast Kiosks. With an intuitive layout and sleek, branded design, you can customize your kiosk menu categories, pictures, and product descriptions. Customers can easily edit their order any time. Take advantage of these features by providing them with a visual feast of new menu items to try.

> "With the Toast kiosks, there's more interaction between the staff and our customers because they're out there talking to them without the barrier of a counter. We're seeing a higher average ticket size because people buy with their eyes. They're adding more items to their kiosk basket than they would at the counter. "
